OUR NAVY SHOULD BE GREATEST IN WORLD, SAYS PRESIDENT

The Presidential Party at Breakfast at the Jefferson Hotel

—Photographed Exclusively for the Post Dispatch

The arrow indicates the President. Mrs. Wilson, whose back was turned to the camera, is indicated by the star.

COLISEUM'S BIGGEST CROWD HEARS SPEECH
FOR PREPAREDNESS

We Must Be Ready for First Onslaught or Suffer the First Disaster, Executive Declares.

TELLS HOW A SINGLE ACT MIGHT DRAW U. S. INTO WAR

Three Demonstrations as He Begins Address
—Flags Waved and "America" Sung by Audience and 1500 School Children.

President Wilson, in a 34-minute speech this morning at the Coliseum before the largest crowd that ever gathered at that place, declared that the United States should have the greatest navy in the world.

"There is no other navy in the world that has to cover so great an area, an area of defense, as the American navy," he said, "and it ought, in my judgment, to be incomparably the greatest navy in the world."

It was conservatively estimated that there were 12,000 in the assemblage which got inside the Coliseum, and thousands were turned away.

The President declared that submarine commanders abroad have instructions which, for the most part, conform with international law, but that the act of one commander might set the world afire, including America.

"Upon the ocean there are hundreds of cargoes of American goods," he said, "cotton, grain, and all the beautiful supplies America is sending out to the world—and anyone of those cargoes, anyone of those ships may be the point of contact that will bring America into the war."

For the first time during his tour, which ends today, the President spoke of how one set of belligerents, the Teutonic allies, was cut off from the world. He said this kept the United States from helping them, as it would lose the statement in trying to show that the United States was really neutral.

The President emphatically reiterated that he believed the United States was with him. He said the living rooms of the White House did not face toward the city of Washington, but toward Virginia and the open spaces.

Where he "listens to America," he said, "I listen to the voice of America," he declared. "I think I have heard that voice say that we must let no one invade the rights of America."

The President ended his speech amidst applause. The President and Mrs. Wilson departed from Union Station at 12:30 p. m. for Washington, where they will arrive tomorrow afternoon. On the way a 30-minute stop was made at the Relay Depot in East St. Louis, where the President spoke from the train.

The Coliseum doors were opened at 9 o'clock, and within 30 minutes every one of the 11,000 seats had been taken and every available portion of standing room was filled. There was a jam in Washington avenue, Jefferson avenue and Locust street, and the eagerness to get into the Coliseum, after it had been filled, made it necessary to call for additional policemen to handle the crowd.

Along Locust street, from Twelfth street to Jefferson avenue, thousands gathered to see the President as he was driven from the Jefferson Hotel, where he had breakfasted with the Business Men's League, to the Coliseum.

The Coliseum was decked with bunting and streamers of green vines, which radiated in festoons from the corners of the roof. In the crowd were hundreds of persons who had been given a part holiday by their employers, in response to the Mayor's proclamation. High school students also had a holiday.

School Chorus of 1500. In a corner of the first balcony on the Washington avenue side, sang national airs, to the accompaniment of a band which played before the President's arrival. The crowd rose and joined in singing "America." Later, when the children started singing "Dixie," a gray-haired woman, sitting in the arena area, from her seat, waved a large American flag and led the crowd in the singing.

In the arena seats it appeared there were as many women as men, but men predominated in the balconies.

When the President entered every person stood, and small flags which they had found on the seats were waved. The crowd cheered for 30 seconds until the President was seated. The crowd seated itself, but almost immediately rose again and cheered for another minute.

Clarence Howard, president of the Business Men's League, introduced the President. As the Executive walked to the front of the platform he was greeted with a third demonstration, lasting about 30 seconds. A man at the left of the platform made a noisy attempt to get nearer, declaring that he wished to get a place where he could hear. The President looked toward the disturbance and remarked to his wife, "This isn't a convention, is it?"

APPAM REACHES
NEWPORT NEWS TO LAND ITS PEOPLE

Majority of 244 Persons Will Be Put on Steamer Bound for New York.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 3.—With her German prize commander on the bridge, the British liner Appam moved up from Old Point early today and anchored off this port to discharge the 245 persons on board given liberty to land in the United States. The ship's legal status still is undetermined. Lieut. Berg, the German officer, moves his staff only on orders through Collector Hamilton.

"We are treating her as an English ship which has put into an American port flying the German naval ensign and under charge of a man who says he is an officer of the German navy," is Hamilton's explanation of the attitude of the United States.

Some of those who were passengers on the Appam when she was captured by the German raider, variously described as the Ponar or Moewe, prepared to land in Newport News, but most of them will be transferred with the crew of other captured British vessels to Norfolk, there to board a steamer to New York on their way to England.

Many to Sail at Once. Sir Edward Moreweather and other British colonial officers with large quantities of baggage have arranged to place their property in customs bonds here and proceed directly to New York to take the first available ship for home.

James Berg, though studiously polite, extends no undue courtesies even to American officials, and insists upon recognition of his absolute authority over the ship and her company. He is holding more than 200 persons aboard, including his own prize crew of 25 men, 20 Germans who were prisoners of war on the Appam, Captain Harrison and the entire crew of 100 of the Appam.

Most of his passengers, who he says belong to the British army or navy, will be taken to Washington Government house after the ship anchored to look after the interests of their respective governments. The Prince is using his

PRESIDENT'S NEW GLOVES TAKEN

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 3.—While President Wilson was speaking here yesterday a pair of new fur-lined gloves were taken from a pocket of his overcoat, which he had hung in an anteroom. It was supposed somebody wanted a souvenir.

He missed them when he started for his train.

WILSON "LIKENESS"
IS UNRECOGNIZED

The management of the Hotel Jefferson spread itself in making things attractive for the President's party, the decoration centerpiece being a portrait of the President himself, placed over Mr. Wilson's table. It was painted by Carl Helm, the house decorator, who spent 12 hours on it. It depicted about 2 years from the President's age and represented him as smiling in complete unconsciousness of five soldiers and a battery in the background of the picture, doing their best to express some of the phases of preparedness.

The portrait seemed to interest members of the party which has been with Mr. Wilson since his departure from Washington. One of them, a veteran correspondent, after studying it attentively, turned to a companion.

"Can you tell me who the gentleman is?" he asked.

"Really," said the other, "when he too had examined it. 'It's somebody I ought to know, but I just can't place him.'"

Both parties saw two large sun spots near the middle of the sun's equator. These were first observed about 8:15, when the sun was approaching eclipse.

In no part of the United States was the eclipse total. The line of totality extended through parts of Colombia and Venezuela and across the Pacific Ocean.

In every detail the eclipse observations as to start, duration and finish, prepared by the Rev. Bernard Goessse, astronomer at St. Louis University, and published in advance by the Post-Dispatch last week.

TWIN BORN AT 10:30 TODAY

NAMED "WOODROW" AND "WILSON"

Sons of Delivery Clerk Came Into World at About Time President's Speech Began.

At about 10:30 o'clock this morning Mrs. Robert E. Brown of 8 Rugby place became the mother of twins, both boys. As the elder of the two uttered his first cry about the time that President Wilson began his address at the Coliseum, he was named Woodrow. The second, who came into the world 30 minutes later, was named Wilson.

Dr. J. W. Shankland, who was in attendance, said the condition of the mother and babies was excellent. The father is delivery clerk for a chemical concern. Woodrow weighed 7 pounds and Wilson 5½.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

SUN IN PARTIAL ECLIPSE NEARLY 2 HOURS TODAY

A partial eclipse of the sun started, as is usual with eclipses, on schedule at 8:06 a. m. today. Astronomers had calculated the hour in advance, and their figures showed that the eclipse would be over at 10:47 a. m. At the moment of greatest obscuration the moon's shadow covered 25 per cent of the lower part of the sun's surface.

The eclipse could be observed by amateurs through smoked glasses or through a small hole punched in a card.

Two corps of astronomers viewed the eclipse at St. Louis University. The Revs. Francis Gert, J. J. J. and E. Poettker, of the faculty, used a 6-inch telescope. The Revs. Dennis Burns and James Macelwane observed the sun through a 3-inch glass. They are members of the faculty of Loyola Academy.

Both parties saw two large sun spots near the middle of the sun's equator. These were first observed about 8:15, when the sun was approaching eclipse.

In no part of the United States was the eclipse total. The line of totality extended through parts of Colombia and Venezuela and across the Pacific Ocean.

BIG CROWD AT STATION

GREETED PRESIDENT; 560 AT BREAKFAST WITH HIM

Spectators Show Intense Interest and Respect, Rather Than Exuberance—Executive Reads Paper Until Reception Committee Comes.

President Wilson's arrival this morning was greeted by the densest crowd which has been seen in Union Station since Dr. Cook, polar claimant, made his memorable visit to St. Louis in 1909. It was not an excited or a demonstrative crowd, and there were few such cries as are commonly heard in a Roosevelt crowd; but for numbers it outdid any gathering that has met either Roosevelt or Taft on their presidential visits here.

The people were packed closely in the entire west half of the station midway, and the stairway and balcony in the center of the midway were overrun.

At 9 o'clock a salute of 21 guns, fired from the Eighteenth street bridge, announced the train's entrance under the station train shed.

As the train backed up, those within the midway enclosure saw President Wilson standing in the rear of the car wearing a fur-lined overcoat. It was still 30 minutes to the time set for receiving the Business Men's League committee. The President went inside and spent the 30 minutes reading a morning newspaper, apparently greatly interested. Mrs. Wilson remained in her stateroom until the committee entered the car.

At the appointed moment President Howard of the Business Men's League boarded the car and greeted the President. Mrs. Wilson appeared and shook hands with the committeemen. She was dressed in black, with a three-quarter black coat, tightly buttoned over a black velvet dress. She wore a black toque, trimmed with aigrettes and an ostrich plume. The severity of the coat's outline is relieved by dark fur at the throat and wrists. A cluster of lavender corsage gave a touch of color to the costume, which was completed by black walking shoes.

Mrs. Wilson Chats as She Walks. Howard and the President left the car. Mrs. Wilson turned to assist his wife down the steps. James E. Smith acted as her escort through the soldier-lined throngs of the midway to

The Twentieth street exit. She smiled frequently and chatted vivaciously as they walked. There were scattered cheers, but no concerted outbursts of applause.

The President and Mrs. Wilson sat together on one seat of an open auto and Gov. Major and William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, sat opposite them. The President rose once and bowed to the crowd in response to an outburst of cheering.

A dense crowd extended along Twentieth street for two blocks north of Market, and it repeatedly cheered, while more enthusiastic individuals tossed their hats in the air, as the President was driven to the Hotel Jefferson. The President frequently raised his hat and Mrs. Wilson smiled.

The crowd was much smaller along Market street. Several hundred men and boys trotted along, behind the party all the way from Union Station to the Jefferson. Policemen were stationed at intervals of 50 feet all along the route.

Party Goes to Breakfast Room. Twelfth street was packed with people, but the Police and Secret Service men kept the way clear. The party stepped immediately into an elevator and went to the second floor. After remaining there about eight minutes, it returned to the first floor and went to the dining room. Mrs. Wilson had simply removed her coat and appeared in a black velvet dress, with a blue and white waist with chiffon sleeves.

The 500 members of the Business Men's League, who had purchased tickets to the 33-a-plate breakfast, seated themselves in the Locust street dining room as soon as the President had gone upstairs.

The President's table was placed alongside the south wall of the room. It was long enough to seat 40 men, all of whom faced the other diners. A table for eight, Mrs. Wilson and the seven women entertaining her, was placed directly in front of the President's table, and in the center of the room. On either side of Mrs. Wilson's table was a table for newspaper men.

friendship for all the nations of the world. It is not, as some have mistakenly supposed, a peace based upon self-interest. It is a peace based upon some of the most generous sentiments that characterize the heart. You know, my fellow citizens, that this nation is a composite nation. It has a genuine friendship for all the nations of the world, because it is drawn from all the nations of the world. The blood of all the great national stocks runs, and runs red and strong, in the veins of America, and America understands what the genuine ties of friendship and affection are. It would tear the heart strings of America to be at war with any of the great nations of the world. (Applause.)

Can Show Friendship by Peace. Our peace is not based upon the mere convenience of our national life. For great issues, which it is our honorable obligation to defend, we would not be at peace, but would plunge into any trouble necessary in order to defend our honor and integrity, the honor and integrity of our nation. But we believe, my fellow citizens, that we can show our friendship for the world and our devotion for the purpose of humanity better by keeping out of this trouble than by getting into it.

I did not misread the heart of this great country. The heart of this great country is sound, and its sense of fundamental principles of human sympathy, which move all men, when not interested with the policies of groups and men and the impulses of those who do not represent the people themselves.

I have no indictment against any form of government, but I do not believe that the world has ever witnessed a case, or even will, where one people desire to make war upon another people. And I believe that the security of America rests in the fact that no man is master of America. We know that no man can lead whether the people do not desire to be led.

I believe it to be my duty, whatever my individual opinions might be, whatever my individual sympathy, whatever my individual point of view might be, to subordinate all that to the conscientious attempt to express in the international affairs of the world the genuine spirit of my fellow man.

No Man Need Preach Peace. As far as America is concerned, no man need go about preaching peace. We are disciples of peace already, and no man need preach that gospel among us. I in my individual capacity am also a disciple of domestic peace and security. (Applause.) But suppose that my neighbor's house is on fire, and my roof is of combustible shingles; that the fire has taken to the wood, the flames leap from timber to timber. It is my fault, because I love peace and security, that my doors are battered in readiness?

The danger is not from within, it is from without. (Applause.) And I am bound to tell you that that danger is constant and immediate, not because anything new has happened, not because there has been any change in our international relationships within the last several months, but because the danger comes with every turn of events.

Gentlemen, the commanders of submarines have their instructions, and these instructions are consistent for the most part with the law of nations, but one reckless commander of a submarine, choosing to put his private interpretation upon what his Government wishes him to do, might set the world on fire.

Respect Given If Respect Is Shown. There are cargoes of cotton on the sea, cargoes of wheat on the sea, there are cargoes of material and articles on the sea, and every one of these cargoes may be the point of ignition, because every cargo comes into the field of fire, comes where there are flames, which no man can control. We respect other nations, and absolutely respect their rights so long as they respect our rights.

We do not claim anything for ourselves which they would not, under like circumstances, claim for themselves. Every statement of right that we have made is grounded upon the utterances of their own public men and their own judges. There is no dispute about the rights of nations under the understandings of international law.

America has drawn no fine point. America has no novel issue. America has merely asserted the rights of her citizens and her Government, upon what is written plain on all the documents of international intercourse. Therefore, America is not selfish in claiming her rights. She is merely standing for the rights of mankind, under the life of mankind is being disturbed by an unprecedented war between the greatest nations of the world. (Applause.)

Some of these days we shall be able to call the statements of the older nations to witness that it was we who kept the quiet flame of international principle burning upon its altar while the winds of passion were sweeping away every altar in the world. Some of these days they will look back with gratification upon the steadfast allegiance of the United States to these principles of action which every man loves when his temper is not upset and his judgment not disturbed.

Ready to Make Allowance. I am ready to make every patient allowance for those caught in the stress of national struggle. I am not in a critical frame of mind. I am not ready to yield everything to an absolute final essential of right, because I know how my heart would

Mrs. Rolla Wells.
Mrs. A. L. Shapleigh.
Mrs. W. L. Hill.
Mrs. Sam D. Capen.
Mrs. Edward F. Goltra.

burn and I know how my mind would be, if America were engaged in a terrible struggle. I know how I would be inclined to sweep aside the minor impediments of the ordinary transactions of government. Why? We are fighting for our lives, and we are not going to be sunbathing as to how we are fighting for our lives.

For, having pledged myself, as your chairman has reminded you, to maintain, if it is possible for me to maintain, the peace of the United States, I have thereby pledged myself to think as far as possible from the point of view of the other side, as well as the point of view of America.

I want the record of the conduct of this administration to be a record of genuine neutrality, and not of pretended neutrality. You know the circumstances of the time, my fellow citizens, you know how one group of belligerents is practically shut off by circumstances over which we have no control, from the ordinary commerce of the war.

You know, therefore, how the spirit of America has been able to express itself adequately in both directions, but I believe the people of America are genuinely neutral; I believe that their desire is to stand in unprejudiced judgment upon what is going on. Not that they would arrogate to themselves the right to utter rebuking judgment to any nation, but that they are holding themselves not to assist either side in what is wrong, but to countenance both sides in what they are doing for the legitimate defense of their national honor. (Applause.) Because the fortunate circumstances of America, my fellow countrymen, is that it desires nothing but a free field and no favor. (Applause.)

Parity of Motive, War Neutrality. Our security is in the purity of our motives, and the minute we get an impure motive, we are going to deserve to be in trouble. The minute we desire what we have no right to then we are going to get into trouble. (Applause.) But, my fellow citizens, while we know our own hearts and know our own desires, it does not follow that other nations and other Governments understand our purpose and our principle of action.

These are days of infinite prejudice and passion, because they are days of war. It is said by an old maxim that amidst war the law is silent. It is also true that amidst war the judgment is silent. Men press forward toward their object with a certain degree of blind recklessness, and they are apt to excite their passions, particularly against those who stand in their way, and therefore this is the situation that I have come to remind you of, for you need merely to have it stated to see it.

The peace of the world, including America, depends upon the aroused passion of other nations, and not upon the motives of the nation itself, and it is for that reason that I have come to call you to a consciousness of the necessity for preparing this country for anything that might happen. (Applause.)

Choice of Two Things Offered. Now, here is the choice, and I don't see how any prudent man could doubt which alternative to take. Either we shall still wait for the necessity for immediate national defense to come, and then call for raw volunteers, who probably for the first few months would be impotent as against a trained and experienced enemy, or we shall adopt the ancient American principle that the men of the country shall be made ready to take care of their own Government. (Applause.)

You have either got to make the men of this nation, in sufficient number, ready to defend the nation against initial disaster, or you have to take the risk of initial disaster. Think of the cruelty, think of the stupidity of putting raw levies of inexperienced men into the modern field of battle.

We are not asking for armies; we are asking for a trained and experienced force which will act in the spirit of citizenship, and not in the spirit of military establishments.

If anybody is afraid of a trained citizenry, he is afraid of the spirit of America itself. I don't want to command a great army, under my authority, under the Constitution, to be Commander in Chief of the army and navy of the United States. I want to command the confidence and support of my fellow citizens.

Of course you will back me up and come to my assistance, if I know you. (Continued applause.) But you come, knowing what you are about, or won't you? (Voices in audience: Yes, yes.) Will you come, knowing the character acter of the arms that you carry in your hands, knowing something of the discipline of organization, knowing something as to how to take care of yourselves. That is, knowing something about all those things it is necessary to know, so as not to throw human life away.

The plans now laid before the Congress of the United States are merely plans not to throw the life of American youth away. (Applause.) Those plans are going to be adopted. (Applause.) I am not jealous, and you are not jealous of the details. No man ought to be confident that his judgment is correct about the details.

No man ought to say to any legislative body: You must take my plan or none at all. That is arrogance and stupidity; but we have the right to insist, and I don't think it will be necessary to insist, that we will get the essential thing. That is the principle, the system by which we can get a trained citizenship, so that it becomes necessary to defend the nation, the first line of defense on land will be an adequate and an intelligent line of defense. I say on land, because America apparently has never been jealous of our men if they are only at sea.

And America also knows that you can't send volunteers to sea, unless you want to send them to the bottom. (Applause.)

The modern fighting ships, the modern submarine, and other instruments of modern naval warfare, must be handled by experts. America has never debated or disputed that proposition, and all we are asking for is a sufficient number of experts at their disposal.

Young Better Than American Navy. Because the vessels we have are commanded by experts, there is not a better service in the world than that of the American navy. But no matter how skilled and how capable the officers, or how devoted the men, they must have ships enough, and we are going to have ships enough. (Applause.)

We have been doing it slowly and leisurely and good-naturedly, as we are accustomed to do everything in times of peace; but now we must get down to business and do it systematically; we must lay down a program and then steadfastly carry it out and complete it.

There are no novelties about the program—all the lines of it are the lines already established, only drawn out to their legitimate conclusion and drawn out so they will be completed with a stimulus to the imagination. Do you realize the task of the navy? Have you ever let your imagination dwell upon the enormous stretch of coast from the canal to Alaska, from the canal to the northern coast of Maine? There is no other navy in the world that has to cover so great an area, an area of defense, as the American navy.

And it ought, in my judgment, to be incomparably the greatest navy in the world. (Applause.) But, as I say, you have never been jealous of armed force at sea. You have been jealous of the armed force on land, and I must say that I share with you the jealousy of a great military establishment. But I never have shared any prejudice against putting arms in the hands of trained citizens, whose interest is to defend their homes and their security, and not to serve any political purpose whatever. (Applause.)

No Politics in Defense. There is no politics in national defense, ladies and gentlemen, I would be sorry to see men of different parties differ about anything but the details of this great question, and I do not find any essential difference. Some men do not see anything; some men look right straight in the face of the facts, and see nothing but atmospheric air. Some men are so hopelessly and contentedly provincial that they can't see the rest of the world. But they don't constitute a large or influential minority even. (Applause.)

You must listen to them with indifference, and then absolutely ignore them. They have a right to talk, but they have no right to affect our conduct. (Continued applause.) Indeed, if I were in your place, I would encourage them to say nothing, nothing like exposure to the air, and these gentlemen ought to be encouraged to hire a large hall. (Applause and laughter.)

The judgment of America is not based upon sentiment, but upon fact, and I say you are nothing but sentiment. They have encouraged me more upon this trip than the consciousness that America is awake to the facts. (Applause.)

I don't want to say anything disrespectful about any newspaper, but it is astonishing how little some newspaper editors know. (Long applause.) I give you like some of them, a candid expression of the impression they have got from what has happened since I left Washington. They probably will give it their own interpretation, and they will give it their own interpretation, but I ought to comfort them, because from the time I left Washington until now, I have had this feeling that the country is up and every man is awake, human life is not man who does not realize what the situation is, and what we ought to do in order to meet that situation.

America's Voice Still, but Powerful. The strength of America, nothing has encouraged me more upon this trip than the consciousness that America is awake to the facts. (Applause.) I don't want to say anything disrespectful about any newspaper, but it is astonishing how little some newspaper editors know. (Long applause.) I give you like some of them, a candid expression of the impression they have got from what has happened since I left Washington. They probably will give it their own interpretation, and they will give it their own interpretation, but I ought to comfort them, because from the time I left Washington until now, I have had this feeling that the country is up and every man is awake, human life is not man who does not realize what the situation is, and what we ought to do in order to meet that situation.

The people in those spaces seem to send in at those southern windows of the executive mansion their message of reassurance. That is where I listen for the still voice of America, and I believe that voice is brought to me in unmistakable accents of the rest of this country to do whatever is necessary and essential to do, in order that no man might question the honor and perfect integrity, or disregard the rights of the United States of America. (Applause.)

President Slips Leaving Platform. When the President finished speaking at 12 o'clock he immediately left the platform. The audience sprang to its feet, cheering and waving flags, while the band struck up "America." The President slipped on the bottom step, and fell backwards when the latter caught and steadied him.

When his party reached the exit his hand had not yet been brought up in front. A crowd jammed Jefferson avenue from Washington to Locust. It was two or three minutes before the party arrived and in all that time the crowd was cheering.

As the President and his wife entered the machine an angry Mrs. Wilson a great shout of American Beauty roses. The crowd was so dense that a start could not be made until a squad of policemen forced the people back. The President arose and waved his hat and Mrs. Wilson waved her hand.

At Union Station the President escorted Mrs. Wilson inside the car and then returned to the rear platform. The crowd shouted "Speech," but he smiled a negative. Then there were calls for Mrs. Wilson, mostly from women.

The President put his hand to the side of his mouth and whispered: "She can't stand it as long as I can, but I'll call her before we leave." Mrs. Wilson came out on the platform in a short while and there was a cheer. An urchin shouted "She's the boss of the United States," and the crowd laughed. The train departed in a few moments, shortly after the noon-day whistle blew.

President Speaks During 3 Minutes of 7-Minute Visit at St. Louis. The President's train stopped for seven minutes at the Relay Depot in East St. Louis, where a crowd of several thousand persons shivered in the cold waiting. In a two-minute talk the President spoke of his gratification at the size and enthusiasm of the crowds that had greeted him in Illinois.

A little girl, Melva Stolle, 7 years old, dressed as Miss Columbia, was lifted to the platform of his car and presented a bouquet of roses. The President grasped her by both hands, said "How beautifully you are dressed" and posed for a photograph with her. He spent five minutes shaking hands.

Repeated calls for her brought Mrs. Wilson to the platform, and she was cheered as she took up the bunch of roses. The President continued shaking as many hands as possible as the train pulled out. One man started after the train and cried, "Put it there, Wilson." The President reached for his hand and shook it.

Negro Janitor Puts East St. Louis Hall Flag on President's Hat. During the brief visit of President Wilson in East St. Louis, the flag upon the city hall was at half mast. An investigation by city officials showed that the person responsible was a negro janitor who votes the Republican ticket. He said that it was all a mistake and that he thought he had pulled the flag to the mast head.

Big Crowd Sees President on His Arrival Here

The other diners were seated at tables scattered about the dining room.

The President, in his speech at the Jefferson Hotel, said: "Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen: I cannot stand here without remembering the last time I had the pleasure of addressing an audience in St. Louis. The Civic League paid me the compliment of thinking that I knew something about the government of a city."

The President then told of having spoken, at that time, on the new city quarter. "I hope you have forgotten that speech," he said. "I had forgotten it myself until a copy was produced and I was confronted with opinions from which I had departed."

"It's just as well to shed your speeches as you go along."

On his present trip, the President said, his chief regret was the number of speeches he couldn't get off. He said he was speaking on preparedness with a cor and seat because it was the most pressing and immediate question before us, and admitted of no delay.

"We must not only prepare to mobilize our forces for defense, if unhappily that should become necessary, but also mobilize our economic forces for the service of the world after the war is over."

Not Looking Forward to War. "We are not looking forward to war, we are looking forward with the greatest ardor to the peace and restoration which will follow this great struggle. On the surface, there seems to be bitterness and bitterness, but it is only on the surface. No great people ever hated another great people."

"Among great movements, one, not the chief, is that of the advertising men, banded together to see that advertisements tell the truth. That is an index. Sometimes we have drawn it (meaning advertising) a little strong. Real efficiency is in fact."

"Even in self-defense it is better to anticipate the facts. America is to be called into the international situation more than ever before. America has been about going out into international affairs. She has shut the door against matching the wits of America with the rest of the world. I am willing to back American business men, and I believe the world, who have lost their banking business to foreign nations."

"The United States should be in a position to place itself at the service of other nations. That's why we are trying so diligently to avoid being drawn into the war."

"We must keep our thought untouching by the flames of war, and hold ourselves in readiness to serve, when peace comes, which, in the providence of God, we hope shall endure."

World Can't Endure Another Such War. "The world cannot endure another such war. After it is over, we will be farther toward peace than ever before."

"I believe that the message all men should carry at their hearts is the message of preparedness for peace. Unhappily, we have a trend another way, due to conditions not established by us. We do not defend ourselves against ourselves; we may have to defend ourselves against invasion."

"When we have settled the question of reasonable, rational preparation, then we will consider other matters."

"I have changed my mind about a good many things. I changed it about the advisability of having a tariff board. I have changed it about the advisability of having a tariff board. I have changed it about the advisability of having a tariff board."

"I now believe a Tariff Board is necessary, to find out how far the facts have been changed by the war. No man can foresee and guide legislation on economic matters. We want the facts."

WOMAN PUSHES TO PRESIDENT'S AUTO, ARRESTED

Wife of Walter Tries to Hand Executive Two Letters About Religion.

Mrs. Lumen Ernest Sciaroni, 40 years old, of 2023 Lincoln avenue, wife of a Planners Hotel waiter, caused some commotion at the Twentieth street Union Station entrance when she pushed her way to President Wilson's automobile and attempted to hand two letters to the executive.

Detectives arrested Mrs. Sciaroni and took her to police headquarters, where it was apparent she was under a mental strain. The letters were found to be appeals to the President to so simplify a religious faith that everyone could understand it and embrace it. Mrs. Sciaroni said she had a vision when a priest at the hospital recently and received a command to write the letters.

She was held until her husband arrived to take her home. A shabbily dressed woman made several attempts to get admission to Mrs. Wilson's room at the Jefferson, while Mrs. Wilson was there before breakfast. A secret service agent persuaded her to go away, but did not learn her name.

She said she merely wished to congratulate the President, presumably on his marriage.

WOMAN TRYING TO GET GLIMPSE OF MRS. WILSON HIT BY ENGINE

She Is Badly Injured in Terminal Yards Without Having Seen President's Party.

Mrs. Jessie Loar, 20 years old, of 243 Chippewa street, was knocked down and injured in the Terminal yards at 2:10 o'clock today while trying to get a glimpse of President Wilson's wife.

Mrs. Loar is employed as cleaner of Pullman cars and when she saw the President's special train backing into Union Station she and other women ran alongside. Mrs. Loar did not see a switch engine coming on another track. It struck her and broke her right ankle, dislocated her right shoulder and caused internal injuries.

She was taken to St. Mary's Infirmary without having seen the President's party.

DETECTIVE IN EVERY VACANT HOUSE ON PRESIDENT'S ROUTE

Secret Service Men Take Precautions to Guard President Against Cranks.

The keys of every vacant building along the route traversed by the President were turned over yesterday to the Police Department, as one of the precautions taken to guard the President. A detective was on duty in each vacant building while the President passed. An examination also was made of all first floor on buildings along the route.

Policemen at 2:30 a. m. crawled through the hot air ducts leading into the Coliseum to make sure no one was hiding there. One of these ducts led to a radiator opening directly back of the speaker's platform. The ducts are almost large enough for a man to stand upright in them. After finding that no one was hiding in the pipes, policemen stood guard at all the radiator openings.

These precautions were taken at the suggestion of W. H. Cram, chief of the United States Secret Service, who was in St. Louis yesterday.

President and Wife Both Violate Iowa Anti-Tipping Law

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 3.—Iowa's anti-tipping law was violated three times by the President and Mrs. Wilson in their visit here, but local officials smilingly remarked that they "guessed no prosecutions would follow."

Mrs. Wilson gave a $5 gold piece to Peggy Colner, a hotel waitress who attended the presidential party. She also handed a quarter to a cloakroom girl. The President gave a dime to a messenger boy for obtaining some newspapers for him.

The anti-tipping law is punishable by a fine of $5 or 10 days in jail for both the giver and the recipient of a tip.

NEW DEVICES FOR NAVY TOLD OF AT SENATE HEARING

Destroyers to Be Able to Hunt Torpedoes Broadside at Enemy Ship.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Rear Admiral Strauss, Chief of Ordnance, told the House Naval Committee yesterday that the system for salvaging fire of torpedoes from destroyers was to be tried which would enable a destroyer to hurl a torpedo broadside at an enemy ship. The torpedo net now being manufactured for the Oklahoma, he said, could not be penetrated by a torpedo—even one equipped with a wire-cutting device. He revealed also that the department had devised a system of anchored entanglements for use against submarines.

Rear Admiral Strauss said the latest 14-inch guns of the navy, having a range of 24,000 yards as mounted, or 16,000 yards as shipboard, were the equal of the 15-inch weapons of foreign navies because of the greater muzzle velocity. He said that at target practice last year three 12-inch shells were driven through heavy armor plating at 13,000 yards.

The department had not decided, he said, whether the two new battleships asked for this year would carry 10 16-inch rifles or 12 14-inch. He declared the Hammond radio-controlled torpedo was not suitable for navy use.

Discussing submarine mines, Rear Admiral Strauss said the General Board had recommended an increase of 500 over the number heretofore believed to be necessary. The Norfolk Navy Yard is turning out those of the newest design, he said, at a rate of one a day, which soon will be increased to 20.

Members of the National Guard Association continued before the House Military Committee their vigorous opposition to any army increase plans which would exclude the state troops as soldiers of the first line.

Adjutant-General Dickson of New Jersey, Adjutant-General Dickson of Illinois and former Adjutant-General Critchfield of Ohio testified that there virtually was no sentiment among the members of the National Guard in favor of the continental army plan. They contended that Congress had full power to nationalize the militia, and that defects of the system pointed out by regular army officers could be remedied.

Col. Critchfield said four regulars were adequate compensation, greater field training, clarification of the President's authority over the National Guard and administration of military affairs by the War Department by officers in sympathy with the needs and wishes of the Guard. Adjutant-General Dickson insisted that in any event the states should retain the right to use the militia in peace times. Col. Dickson, commanding the First Illinois Cavalry, and who was the first line officer of the guard to be heard, was emphatic in asserting that if the continental army were organized interest in the National Guard would wane.

"The promise that we would be in the first line in any war to come," he said, "has kept us true to the faith."

TRUST DEEDS SOLD BY HILLSBORO (ILL.) MAN INVESTIGATED

Investigators Find Mortgages Held by Them Were Released Unknown to Them.

OBLIGATIONS OF $80,000

$22,000 Claims Against Henry R. Crawford Said to Be Unsecured; Suit Discloses Tangle.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

HILLSBORO, Ill., Feb. 2.—A suit filed in the Circuit Court here by Mrs. Mary M. D. Cory asking that the release of a deed of trust and note she purchased for $22,000 from Henry R. Crawford, a real estate dealer and active church worker, be set aside as illegal and fraudulent, has led to the discovery by many persons who have loaned money through Crawford that the deeds of trust they hold as security have been released by Crawford without their knowledge.

When the filing of this suit and the resultant disclosures became known, Crawford went into retirement at his home and the report was given out that he was seriously ill. His office, however, remains open, and his secretary is in daily telephonic communication with him.

The prosecuting authorities of Montgomery County have taken no action as yet. No one is willing to say what will be done, and there is a disposition to await developments. In the meantime lawyers representing clients of Crawford are busy investigating securities sold by Crawford and the volume of alleged irregular transactions is growing daily. Steps have been taken in a few cases in an effort to make the liability for the notes and mortgages revert to the original makers.

Obligations estimated at $80,000. It is stated by persons familiar with Crawford's affairs that he has outstanding obligations of between $80,000 and $100,000. What proportion of this is secured cannot be determined at this time, but it is reliably estimated to be in excess of $22,000. An effort was made by Crawford's friends, when the tangled condition of his affairs first became known, to make good his unsecured debts, but this was abandoned when it became apparent that the amount was too large.

Mrs. Cory's suit was filed three weeks ago. The Hillsboro newspapers were requested not to publish the fact, and for two weeks they refrained from mentioning it. The first news of it was printed a week ago.

The petition alleges that a note for $100 secured by a deed of trust to 25 acres of land near Hillsboro, given to Crawford, Feb. 12, 1910, by Charles W. and Stella Trapp Pullen, was bought from Mrs. Crawford shortly afterward by Mrs. Cory for its face value. It is alleged that this deed of trust was released by Crawford in December, 1912, and the margin of the page on which the deed is copied in the Recorder's office so shows.

It is asserted by Mrs. Cory that she had no knowledge of this release until Dec. 20, 1912, that she has not received any payment of money to apply on the deed and that Crawford has continued to pay her the interest on the note. Mrs. Crawford is a widow and this $100 represents practically all she has. As the matter stands now she will lose all unless the release is set aside, and if that is done and a foreclosure allowed the owner of the property, who has once paid the obligation, will be the loser.

Has $100,000 Investment. So far as is known the person who had the largest sum invested through Crawford without good security is Mrs. Amelia Westcott of Butler, Grove township. Mrs. Westcott, and her mother, Mrs. W. Westcott, were active Methodists and members of the same church with Crawford. The mother had $100,000 invested through Crawford and upon her death left it to Mrs. Westcott. Mrs. Westcott made an effort to obtain the money, at first, but it was in Crawford's hands. In the last year or two Mrs. Westcott felt the need of cash and made frequent visits to Crawford's office to ask for some of her money.

She was paid $100 and $200 at a time until Crawford had let her have $1,000. On each occasion she was asked by Crawford to sign a note for the amount he gave her. She has now discovered that these notes were hypothecated by Crawford and are held by a bank as collateral for some of Crawford's debts. Mrs. Westcott has employed an attorney, but he states he is not decided what action to take.

Mrs. Margaret Clotfelter of Hillsboro holds two notes with trust deed security which she bought from Crawford Jan. 2, 1911. The records in the Recorder's office show that one of these for $1500 was made by Crawford Jan. 2, 1913 and released by Ednah Gordon, a notary public and stenographer in his office.

Another Deed Released. Godfrey Huber, a farmer, living five miles east of Hillsboro, yesterday investigated a deed of trust his wife, Ednah, bought from Crawford in July, 1912. He found it had been released by Crawford a short time after she bought it, although she had no knowledge of it. The Illinois law does not require the note and trust deeds to be produced as a release is entered in the books of the Recorder's office. All this is necessary is that the owner of record of the note and deeds shall appear and acknowledge satisfaction. In all these cases Crawford was the owner of record of the deeds of trust. The fact that he had sold them to other parties was not on record because in some cases no assignment in writing was given and in other cases, as in the case of the notes held by Mrs. Clotfelter, the assignments were not recorded until too late.

It is pointed out by lawyers here that this laxity of the law makes traffic in fraudulent deeds easy. No forgery is necessary. The holder of the notes and deeds, when he receives the money, can make the release without producing the papers and he can tell the maker he will look up the notes and deeds and send them to him. The unscrupulous dealer can then sell these notes if he finds a buyer who takes his word for their value.

Resigns as Church Trustee. Crawford resigned in his resignation as a member of the board of trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church Friday night. It was accepted. He has been in business here 20 years, and during all that time he has been one of the most active workers in the church. Much of his real estate and loan business was carried on with members of his church, especially with women.

The church, itself, is in a position to lose through one of its deacons, Charles Bliss, a trustee, told the Post-Dispatch reporter. According to Bliss, the trustee decided in July, 1914, to sell a vacant lot adjoining the parsonage. Crawford was then secretary of the board and he was authorized to sell the lot for $1000 and was to be allowed a commission.

Shortly afterward, Bliss said, Crawford sold the lot to Mrs. Amelia Westcott for $1000, and received a check for the amount. This check, Bliss said, was cleared through the First National Bank of Hillsboro. The trustees, he said, have not yet received any of the money. The board frequently asked Crawford for it, and in July, 1915, he gave them a note secured by Hillsboro town property. Bliss said yesterday the security is of doubtful value.

The Methodist Church has taken no action in Crawford's case, Bliss said, but is awaiting developments. The Post-Dispatch reporter made an effort to see Crawford, but was denied admission on the ground that he was so ill that it was dangerous for him to talk to anyone. Shortly after that, Miss Ednah Gordon, who is in charge of Crawford's office, told the reporter she frequently consults Crawford about business matters that come up.

Many Citizens Make Inquiries. She said the revelation of his tangled affairs was a surprise to her, although she has worked in his office 10 years. She admitted many persons are bringing in their papers for investigation and that she has found some of them "apparently" irregular. She told of Crawford's friends abandoning the effort to straighten out his affairs because they were not financially able to put up enough money. She declared he had done nothing with criminal intent and that an honest effort would be made to arrange matters so no one will lose.

Crawford's wife, who talked to the reporter at the door of her home, two blocks west of the courthouse, also said an honest effort would be made to keep anyone from losing. She said she had not been familiar with her husband's affairs. The Crawford's rent the no one else live in.

ARTILLERY SHOWS GREAT ACTIVITY IN NORTHERN FRANCE

French Maintain Intense Fire Near Neuville, Probably Presaging Infantry Attack.

DUTCH SHIP TORPEDOED

Nineteen Members of Crew Missing After British Vessel Is Sunk.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Intense artillery activity along the Franco-Belgian frontier reported in today's German official statement may presage another important offensive movement in this field by one side or the other. British observers hold the view that the initiative just now will be with the Germans, who may try to break through and gain Calais.

Berlin on the other hand indicates that the French may have a plan to view go recoup their losses of territory near Neuville, as their artillery fire in this sector is reported as increasingly heavy, possibly presaging an infantry movement. The Germans report occupying two British mine craters near Huloch and shooting down a British and a French aeroplane near Peronne.

Paris records a German attack on the French positions north of the Aisne near the village of Bois, which failed. The Germans are continuing their submarine activities in the North Sea according to a dispatch from The Netherlands recording the torpedoing of the Dutch motor vessel, Arctis, in those waters. The Arctis put into the Hook of Holland, leaking.

The British steamer Belle of France, of 326 tons, has been sunk. Nineteen Laascars from her crew are missing.

POPULAR BLUFF ENTIRELY CUT OFF FROM RAIL CONNECTION

Last Piece of Track Washed Out When Levee Breaks Near Moark, Ark.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Feb. 2.—The last piece of railroad track that has connected Popular Bluff with the outside world was washed out this morning, when a levee broke near Moark, Ark. If this source of here, Train service has been maintained between Popular Bluff and Paragould and connection was made with the detoured St. Louis and Texas trains at Paragould, but this morning's washout will prevent this train service for at least six hours.

The Frisco has not had a train through here since Saturday night, and the Iron Mountain was washed out between here and Padgett and between Padgett and Dexter Sunday night.

The Iron Mountain estimates its damage at nearly $80,000, and it will cost about that much to repair the other railroads in Southeast Missouri. The damage by the flood in Popular Bluff was slight. The levee held and the only water that reached the east side of the city was from a break north of town, but it had a large territory to overflow and did not get more than a foot deep at the deepest place.

No St. Louis newspapers have reached here since Monday night. When an engine whistle blows many persons rush to the station, eager to see if the train brings any newspapers.

BOARDING PARTY AND SHIP'S CREW FOUGHT THREE HOURS

Germans From Submarine Killed Eight of British Antagonists in Hand-to-Hand Combat, Sank Their Vessel.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Survivors of the British steamer Woodfield, sunk by a submarine off the Moroccan coast, arrived here today with a story of a fight with the U boat's crew after the submarine had stopped the steamer. The submarine, one of the newest and speediest of the German undersea boats, overhauled the Woodfield after a short chase and sent out a boarding party. The Woodfield's crew attacked the submarine men as they clambered upon the deck and engaged them in a knife and pistol duel. The U boat was unable to bring her guns into play for fear of killing her own men.

The hand-to-hand combat on the Woodfield's decks lasted three hours. The steamer's crew, poorly armed, finally was overcome after eight sailors had been killed and 14 wounded. They were put in small boats and pulled for the Moroccan coast. Their troubles did not end when they reached land, they said. A party of handi Moors noticed their approach and made them prisoners. The released after the Woodfield Shipping Co. of London, the vessel's owners, paid ransom. The survivors were landed at Plymouth yesterday and reported to the company's office today.

3500-Ton British Ship Sunk; 19 Laascars in Crew Missing.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The British steamship Belle of France has been sunk. The Europeans in her crew and 22 Laascars were landed. Nineteen Laascars are missing.

The Belle of France was last reported at Karachi, a port of India, or her arrival at the Port of India on Dec. 24. Her gross tonnage was 3276.

YAWN OF SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER DRAWS AN ATTACK

Woman Speaker at Vaccination Hearing Tells Hiemenz, "It's Your Duty to Be Bored."

Twelve women and three men, led by Mrs. Harriet P. Reber of 3833 Humphreys street, appeared before the Committee on Instruction of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon to protest against the enforcement of the compulsory vaccination rule in the public schools. Speakers attacked the power of the board to make rules which, they said, were unconstitutional and arbitrary.

Mrs. Victoria Whitney of 2807 Locust street read to the committee an editorial from the Post-Dispatch, commenting on a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court in which a similar rule in force in the Illinois schools, was declared unconstitutional. As she was reading Frank X. Hiemenz, an attorney and member of the board, raised his hands above his head, stretched and yawned.

"That red-headed gentleman is bored," said Mrs. Whitney. "I know he is, because he yawned."

Then, addressing Hiemenz, she said: "Sir, it is your duty to be bored. You are supposed to be, with the Superintendent of Instruction, in charge of the welfare of our schools, and this matter of compulsory vaccination is a vital issue. I will not quit my argument because you show signs of distress."

A half minute later Mrs. Whitney, in the middle of her talk, was asked by Benjamin P. Stromberg, chairman of the committee, to cease speaking. Stromberg said the committee had given all the time possible to the hearing of the Protest Committee, and assured the members that the board would thoroughly consider the arguments presented to it.

Grip Fatal to Centenarian. CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Dexter Capron Stanley, centenarian, whose hundredth birthday was celebrated Jan. 12 by the citizens of Downer's Grove, a suburb where he had lived for 81 years, died today. An attack of grip proved too much for his feeble constitution.

NOT A BITE OF BREAKFAST UNTIL YOU DRINK WATER

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infect the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxics and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of lime-salt phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headaches, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic twinges, or have a sour, gas-stomach after meals, are urged to take a quart of lime-salt phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleans, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and lime-salt phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—ADV.

PETER LYMAN, CUT NEAR HEART, WON'T TELL WHO DID IT

Brother of Man Slain in Gang Fight Smilingly Refuses to Help Police.

Loyal to gang ethics, Peter Lyman, 39 years old, of 1113 Cass avenue, who was taken to the city hospital last night suffering from stab wounds just above and below his heart, refused to aid the police in finding his assailant.

"It will do you no good to ask me any questions," he told the police, "because I will not tell you anything." An ambulance was summoned to the Lyman home at 10:30 p. m. by his wife, Mrs. Loretta Lyman, but she left the house to visit friends before the police could interview her.

Lyman's brother, Charles Leo Lyman, was shot to death in a gang fight at Jefferson and Cass avenues, Aug. 11 last, following a quarrel in the Sportsman's Club, 319 Madison street. Christian Dunn, who roomed at Lyman's home, was shot last Sunday by persons whose identity he refused to disclose.

Lyman was wearing a coat and overcoat, but no shirt, when the police found him. There were no knife cuts in the coats, but there were cuts corresponding with the wounds in his undershirt. There was no evidence of a struggle in the Lyman home.

"Maybe it was a negro that did it," said Lyman, with a smile, when pressed by a policeman for a statement.

When Dunn was asked at the hospital if he knew who might have stabbed Lyman, he replied: "I did not."

YOUTHFUL "BORROWER" HELD

Posses as Prospective Client and Asks Woman Saddle for Loan. A youth who said he was Arthur Reese, 19 years old, homeless, was arrested yesterday evening at the request of Norman Sadler, Assistant City Counselor, who charged him with trying to obtain money by false pretenses.

Reese refused to retain Sadler as an attorney to look after his interests in an estate in Alabama, and then asked for a small loan. The lawyer recognized the game as the same as had been worked on several attorneys recently, and summoned the police. Reese said that he had just been released from the State Reformatory at Joliet.

SWEETHEART: Why wait? I'll buy the diamond ring at Lott's Bros. & Co., the National Credit Jewellers, 212 Locust.

Record Enrollment at Columbia. COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, the largest institution for the University of Missouri for the current year, including the last summer session, reached the 4000 mark yesterday afternoon. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the school.

ALL GOING DOWN, NEVER UP, GETS OPERATOR'S GOAT

Elevator Man Sure He Would Hit Bottom Sometimes—Finally Feels Uplift.

"Going down!" "Think of an elevator man who said nothing but 'Going down'—never 'Going up.' Wouldn't want the job, would you? It would bore you, give you the blues."

That was what "got the goat" of T. C. Crawford, elevator operator living at 2844 Lafayette avenue, St. Louis, Mr. Crawford was "going down" for years, he said. Every day he would hear the words "Going down—bottom—bing!"—like that! He could make his elevator behave—oh, yes! Mr. Crawford was there with the goods when it came to operating the car.

Mr. Crawford's own complicated apparatus—he just couldn't make THAT behave.

"Listen," Mr. Crawford said, "I had a bad stomach for years—couldn't depend on the brakes—ables twisted—levers stiff—I don't know what was the matter. But it was a good deal, whatever it was. And I was going down all the time—never up."

One day a friend of mine told me to take Tanlac. I had tried nearly everything else, but I tried Tanlac. Say, that's some medicine. One bottle ran all the pains out of me. The second bottle made me feel better than I had ever felt before in my whole life. Now I eat my meals—they're my size—and they don't pain me as they had done for years before.

Tanlac did a good turn for me and I'll always have a good word for Tanlac. It's great medicine. Mr. Crawford's "good word" for Tanlac is an echo of many other "good words" spoken for Tanlac by thankful men and women who have been benefited by Tanlac. Tanlac builds health and strength. To many people, therefore, Tanlac means money, because it keeps them fit for the job. It is purely vegetable. It is reconstructive.

Tanlac is now being specially introduced at the main store of the Johnson-Enders-Paulley Drug Co. and St. Charles-Sts., and also may be obtained at the 6th and Chestnut Sts., Eighth and Pine, Barnes and Lillian, Broadway and Market, Grand and Hebert, Grand and Olive streets of the Johnson-Enders-Paulley Drug Co.

One of the TANLAC representatives were at the Olive and Grand store of the Johnson-Enders-Paulley Drug Co. every afternoon, and evenings from 7 to 9.

EXECUTIVE DEMANDS QUICK ACTION FOR PROTECTION OF LIVES OF AMERICANS

How Wars Are Won
Modern wars are not won by men, but by machines. They are won by enthusiasm. They are not won by scientific conduct of war, but by scientific application of irresistible force. And what is that force? The President of the U. S. is in the first place, there is a navy which, for my part, I am very much in favor of, and I am in favor of ship by ship, man by man, and officer by officer, I believe, the equal of any navy in the world. Now look at the great sweep of our mind you, this war has opened

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

HE Vocalion is the phonograph which musicians and the music loving public everywhere have recognized as supreme in tone quality—in every phase of artistic excellence. It sounds every music beauty that the record holds.

You have but to hear the Vocalion to know that it is indeed a new and infinitely finer type of phonograph.

And the fascinating new privilege it offers, through the Graduola device, of controlling its music—of actually playing each record, if you choose—increases many-fold its power to give pleasure.

Aeolian-Vocalions cost
from $35 to $2600

Conventional Styles, $35 to $75, without the Graduola; $100 to $350 with Graduola; Art Styles $375 to $2000, with Graduola and other important and exclusive advantages.

Terms as low as $5 down; $5 per month are many things that it has been impossible for me to do which it was my duty to do, because there were not men to do them with. You are not going to be jealous of an increase in the army sufficient to enable the executive to carry out his constitutional responsibilities.

"And over and above that, we have proposed this: That a sufficient number of men put of the ranks of the civil pursuits of the country should be trained in the use of keeping of arms, in the sanitation of camps, in the maintenance of the field and in military organization; to be ready and pledged to be ready if the call should come, upon act of Congress, to unite their forces with the little force of the army itself and make a great multitude of armed men ready to vindicate the rights of America.

"Is there anything inconsistent with the traditions of America in a proposition like that? The very essence of American tradition is contained in the proposal. Every Constitution of every state in the Union forbids the state Legislature to abridge the right of the citizens to carry arms. At the very outset the makers of our very institutions realized that the force of the nation must dwell in the homes of the nation.
It is not the physical force. They realized that every man must be allowed not only to have a vote, but if he wanted to, to have a gun, so that when the voice of the people should be raised, the voices of force would prevail; knowing that great bodies of men do not use force to usurp their own liberties, but to declare and vindicate their own liberties and that there will be no collusion among free men to upset free institutions; that whereas cliques and co-ries and professional groups may manage to be of their interest to interfere with the peaceful life of the country, the general bodies of citizens would never so conceive it to be.

"What Mr. Polier of Preparation is—"What we are asking is this, that the nation supply arms for those of the nation who are ready, if occasion should arise, to come to the national defense, and that it should do this without withdrawing them from their own lives, industry and of peace, in order that America should know that in the foundations from which she always draws her strength there welled up the inexhaustible resources of American manhood. This is not a military policy;
this is a policy of adequate preparation for national defense, and any man who represents it in any other light must either be ignorant or consciously misrepresenting the facts.

"You will say 'We have a national guard.' Yes, we have a national guard, and the units of it so far as I have observed them, command my admiration and respect, but there are only 120,000 enlisted men in the United States, taking the nation as a whole, and they are divided up into as many units as there are States. And the Constitution of the United States puts them under the direct command and control of the Governors of the States, not of the President of the United States, and the national authority has no right to call upon them for any service outside their State, unless the territory of the nation is actually invaded. I want to see Congress do everything that it can to enhance the dignity and the force and to assist in the development of the national guard, but the national guard is a body of state troops and not a body of national reserves, because the Constitution makes them so, no matter what we now think those are the best arrangements or not.

"The other matter I want to speak to you about is not the plan itself, for it is a question of detail. We have given you the idea of it, and time does not suffice to discuss the details. The ings of this sort. The detail is printed, for that matter, for anybody to see who wants it.

"Why Greater Force is Needed.
"But the other matter is this: Suppose you had a great body of let say half a million men sufficiently trained to arms to make the nucleus of a great army. If it were necessary to create a great army. What would be your idea that you would do with it?
That is the matter that we need to up most of all. There are all sorts of people in the United States who think are people who think that we ought to use the force of the United States to get anything we can get with it. But you do not think that, and I do not think that, and not only America in a hundred thousand thinks that. We would use this force, not to carry out any policy that even smacked of aggression, but of any kind, because this nation loves peace more than it loves anything else except honor.

"I like that exclamation of Henry V. in that stirring play of Shakespeare's. If it be an offense to covet honor, then am I the most offending soul alive," and I believe that could be said of America.
If it be an offense against the peace of the nations to covet honor, then is America the most offending nation in the world. But she knows the basis of honor, that the basis of honor is right.
It is peaceful intention, in just action, the treatment of others as we would wish to be treated ourselves, is the instance upon the rule of free field and no favor. The spirit of America would hold any executive back, would hold any Congress back, from any action that had the least taint of aggression upon it. We are not going to invade any nation's territory. We are not going to covet any nation's possessions.
We are not going to invade any nation's rights.

Yellow citizens; for several generations past we have so neglected our merchant marine that one of the difficulties we are struggling against has nothing to do with international questions. We have not got the American ships to send the goods in and we have got to get them. I am going to ask you to follow the fortunes of the so-called shipping bill in the present Congress and make suggestions to your Congressmen as to the absolute necessity of getting your wheat and your other products out of the ports and upon the high seas where they can go and shall go, under the protection of the laws of the United States. But that is a mere parenthesis. Aside from that so far as there are vehicles to carry our trade, we have no right to ask you to follow the fortunes of the so-called shipping bill in the present Congress and make suggestions to your Congressmen as to the absolute necessity of getting your wheat and your other products out of the ports and upon the high seas where they can go

NOSTRILS AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD? TRY MY CATARRH BALM

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely; Dull Headache Goes; Nasty Catarrhal Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone. End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat, clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately. Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless. Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—ADV.

VON PAPAN'S ALLEGED PART IN WELLAND PLOT KNOWN TO U. S.

State Department Not Surprised at Information Given Out by British Authorities. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Officials here were not surprised at news dispatches today saying the British Government had information connecting Capt. Franz von Papen with the alleged plot to blow up the Welland Canal. Information of the tenor was collected by Department of Justice agents and turned over to the State Department before the recall of Capt. von Papen and Capt. Eoy-Ed. Officials of the German embassy said they did not know whether any payments had been made to Bridgeman Taylor, who gave the information to British authorities. It was again pointed out that Von Papen was directly responsible to the War Office in Berlin. In Branches Sweet Violets in case of Box Friday and Saturday. Grimm & Gorty. Phone Olive 500.

GERMAN PAPER ARGUES AGAINST BREAK WITH U. S.

Frankfurter Zeitung Condemns Those Who Say Latest Proposals Are Unacceptable.

By Associated Press. FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, via London, Feb. 3.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, whose utterances on certain subjects are regarded as inspired, published an article in which vigorous objection is expressed to the tone adopted by the press of Berlin in discussing Secretary Lansing's note on submarine warfare and the arming of merchantmen and in particular to the statements made in Berlin that the proposals are unacceptable to Germany. It dissents from the position taken by the Kreis Zeitung and Prof. von Stengel that Germany has no interest in negotiations regarding the freedom of the seas, since England, with America's assistance, is only using the negotiations to wrestle from Germany's hands her submarine weapons. To this the Zeitung rejoins: "It is a gross offense, not only against international law, but against the most elementary conception of good morals, to charge openly that the United States, with which Germany is not at enmity, is putting forth efforts in the sphere of international law merely with the perfidious purpose of helping England."

Condemns Barabing Discussions. The newspaper also condemns sweeping generalizations drawn from the Barabing affair, and regards it as "disgraceful" to make capital out of the incident, as if it were typical of Great Britain's method of making war as if the British Government caused all German seamen who were captured to be murdered.

Turning to the present status of the Lusitania case, the Zeitung says it cannot be ignored that the negotiations have taken an unsatisfactory form. "Apprehensions of this kind," it says, "must exist in America also, as Washington evidently intends to dispose of the Lusitania case at the same time as the general question of submarine warfare, and is using the Lusitania case to obtain Germany's consent on the general question."

It hints that this is a very objectionable procedure, involving serious possibilities. "That people in America are thinking of bringing the matter to a decision," adds the Zeitung, "is evident from the fact that Mr. Wilson has sent Col. House to Europe presumably to obtain certain information from belligerents. We hope that no breach of relations—not to mention something worse—may follow between Germany and the United States, but if the unexpected should happen, Germany will confront her new foe as stoutly as she did the old. But we do not want to be lulled by certain dingo heroes of the writing desk into the illusion that this foe is not dangerous."

How Situation Might Change. The Frankfurter Zeitung then refers to Germany's excellent military situation and to the prospect that the military resources of the allies will be exhausted and that Great Britain's financial resources will fail. It continues: "But all this might change suddenly—at this is obviously England's hope—if the allies secured a new helper, who would grant unlimited loans and furthermore make contributions of a warlike kind by supplying our present enemies with all their requirements in ammunition."

The Frankfurter Zeitung concludes by warning the German people that they must consider the outcome of the war and that every other and however desirable, must be subordinated to it. Feeling That Lusitania Case Crisis Was at Hand Moderated in Berlin, BERLIN, via London, Feb. 3.—The feeling which has been prevalent in German circles that a crisis was at hand in German-American relations, particularly in regard to the Lusitania case, has been moderated, it only to a slight degree, by the semi-official announcement regarding the forwarding to Ambassador von Bernstorff at Washington of instructions which give hope of a definite settlement. The House, which had been depressed by this situation, recovered somewhat on publication of the announcement.

The newspapers have little to say regarding the situation. The chief editorial writer of the Kreis Zeitung devotes a large part of his daily review to a dispassionate discussion of German-American affairs; recognizing that Washington cannot be reproached for endeavoring to make the best of America's favorable position as regards Germany and Great Britain by bringing pressure to bear upon both and playing one against the other. It gives a warning against our overestimation of the importance of such "diplomatic gestures."

ITALY LIKELY TO MAKE NO MORE LOANS FOR THE WAR

Finance Minister Intimates That Indirect Taxation Will Be Recorted to in Future. ROME, Feb. 3.—In a speech delivered in Turin yesterday, E. D'Amico, Italian Minister of Finance, intimated that when the subscription lists have been completed for the third national loan at present being offered, Italy will cease issuing loans and will resort to indirect taxation for the object of further war funds. Signor D'Amico said that the success of the present war loan is assured, as 2,000,000,000 lire ($400,000,000) have already been subscribed, and a total of 3,000,000,000 may be reached before the issue closes on Feb. 10. The two previous national loans totaled 2,500,000,000.

GERMANS SHOT AWAY $400,000 TO DESTROY $70,000 VIADUCT

Cost of Destroying a Village Found to Be Much More Than Amount Needed to Build It. LONDON, Feb. 3.—Bombardment by German long-range 11-inch guns has a greater moral than material effect on the towns bombarded, writes a correspondent from France. This is due to the great amount of waste space in towns, for a shell has just as much of a chance of hitting a vacant lot as a building. The main drawback of these bombardments of open towns is, from the German point of view, their expense. These great shells run in price up to several thousand dollars each. One lesson of the war is that it costs more to destroy a village than to build it. At one point the Germans battered a viaduct to pieces with 11-inch and 8-inch howitzers. The viaduct cost $70,000 to build. French officers estimated the price of its destruction at over $400,000.

Amid War's Alarms

The Story of the escape from Belgium, of a young man, a young woman and a dozen orphan children whom they later adopt.

By Mabel Worthington.

A BOMB burst 50 feet away from the street. A woman screamed and a municipal officer lost his head and hands. A man, well dressed, composed, rather interested than aroused, lit a cigarette and viewed the screaming residents upon his handsomely furnished apartment.

The new philosophy had been born in Belgium during recent critical hours. It was one of many refugees driven to the little Belgian town, at first a sequestered sanctuary from war's alarms, but now virtually invested by the enemy. In one direction it was open country, but there was a deadly waste to cross before reaching the railroad. That leaving the town was torn up for 10 miles and headed beyond.

Seven closer and closer to the border, some 100 tourists had been finally crowded at the little town. They had gathered in various directions. Some of the permanent inhabitants who had fled, that morning Adrian Noble had arrived in an old-time dilapidated house attached to a tired and worn-out inn. At Manes it had picked up a young lady passenger. She, too, had come to Elton to find herself there with some of the refugees.

Noble was a man of leisure. This much he learned of Miss Violet Moore. She was an artistic temperament and had had a long-continued journey. Her uncle, a wealthy man, was awaiting her in Paris. Her beauty had captivated him at the first sight. He had been in a situation that would have shown most women into hysterics. He had come down from the calm of the open street.

She had challenged him, with a womanly smile. "I have a mission," she continued, "to see that the refugees are properly cared for. I am a nurse, and I am a woman of means. I am a woman of means."

The Difficult Job of Getting Ahead in a Fashionable Way

Why the Cedar Is Evergreen

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONCE upon a time there lived far away in a castle that stood on the side of a mountain overlooking the sea. When one day he went off to the war with his soldiers he called up the old nurse and said to her, "I have a mission."

"What is it, my son?" he asked. "I have a mission," she continued, "to see that the refugees are properly cared for. I am a nurse, and I am a woman of means. I am a woman of means."

Chapter XLV.

WAS right. The day after he signed the papers making Jack legally his son he passed away. I was sitting by his side when the death pallor stole across his face.

"Kiss me, Katherine, and—forgive," he murmured, and as I bent over him he was gone.

I closed the house and took an apartment near my business. I know just what the trouble was, and if you will give me a little help from around your waist I will use my magic power to grant his wish."

Carbohydrates in Food

THE general conditions of our everyday life, age, sex, physical and mental strength, season, environment and occupation are the points to be considered in deciding the kind and quantity of foods required for the body's upkeep. The cost, amount of energy and essential nutrients they contain are also important questions.

Prominent physicians and food experts tell us that a woman should eat about one part proteins, or body-building foods, to five parts of the carbohydrates and fats, and the energy-producing ones. The carbohydrates consist of starches and sugar, dextrin and gum, which are found in abundance in many vegetables and cereals, such as potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips, oatmeal, rice, buckwheat and many dried fruits, including apples, dates, figs, prunes, raisins and currents. Those who are engaged in laborious occupations or exposed to the rigors of a cold climate should eat more of all kinds of foods, and no hard and fast rule can be set down for all, owing to the many different conditions in the daily habits of individuals.

Sugars and sweets should be taken very sparingly and as a part of the meal, and if taken in excessive quantities between meals cause acid fermentation in the stomach and often many other complications. They should be omitted entirely in the obesity diet and substituted by sweeteners or saccharine.

Poultry-Show Symphony.

A BAHOOR (Ma) woman, who had occasion to visit an office in the building in which the poultry show was being held one afternoon, heard the noise and innocently remarked: "What I didn't know there was a symphony concert this afternoon." She thought the musicians were tuning up in the corridor back of the stage.

A $500,000 contract has been placed in New Zealand by Great Britain for cheese for the army. This is a fifth of the cheese product of the island.

To Clean Mirrors.

TAKE part of a newspaper, fold it small, dip it in a basin of clean cold water, and when it is thoroughly wet squeeze it out as a sponge, and then rub it hard over the face of the glass, taking care that it is not so wet as to run down in streams. After the glass has been well rubbed with the wet paper, let it rest a few minutes and then so over it with a fresh dry newspaper, till it looks clean and bright, which it will do almost immediately. The inside of windows may be cleaned in this way, and they will look beautifully clear.

To Make Cold Cream.

TAKE 1/2 pound lard, 1/2 cup olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon borax (powdered). Melt these and let them come to a boiling point. Take 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup worth of rose essence or essence of geranium. Add these last two (water and essence) to the boiling fat by degrees, and then stir until cool by setting kettle into a larger kettle or something larger filled with cold water and beat it into cream with the egg beater. This will keep in jars for months if kept where it is cool, and is a fine, harmless and very inexpensive cream to use.

Estimates to the expense of bringing a 200-ton freight train, traveling at a rate of 35 miles an hour, to a full stop, and then regaining the same speed, were recently made by a Southern railway. The expense was 61 cents.

WASHING WONT RID HEAD OF DANDRUFF

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—ADV.

YUSUF ZZEDIN
WAS SLAIN, SAYS
TURKISH REBEL

Cherif Pasha Declares Young Turks Caused Death of the Crown Prince.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—"Yusuf Zzedin, whatever may be said, was assassinated by his suite by order of the Committee of Union and Progress," said Cherif Pasha, who, with Prince Sabah Edin, directs the personal movement of the Turkish opposition, to a reporter for the Matin. "Latterly Yusof had revolted against the dictatorship of the young Turks. He became dangerous, and has been removed. His successor and cousin, Valiedin, is even more hostile to the young Turks than was Yusof. I should not like to make prediction regarding the length of his life," said Cherif Pasha in conclusion.

A dispatch from Constantinople by way of Berlin yesterday said Yusof, the heir to the Turkish throne, had killed himself in his palace by cutting his arteries because of ill health.

Latter details supplied from the same source said the Prince took his life by opening a vein in his left arm, that a statement declaring he had met his death by suicide was signed by his principal doctors in Constantinople and that the Prince was buried at Stamboul the day after his death.

Yusof Zzedin, who was born at Constantinople, Oct. 5, 1867, was a cousin of present Sultan, Valied Edin, who is mentioned as the new heir-apparent, was born at Constantinople, in 1861, and is the brother of the present Sultan.

POST-DISPATCH

The AEOLIAN COMPANY
ST. LOUIS' GREATEST PIANO HOUSE
1004 OLIVE STREET

The Paths of Music Lead to New Worlds of Pleasure

MOST people are only beginning to realize the great and satisfying enjoyment there is in music. Music has its Miltons, its Kiplings, its Balzacs and Maeterlincks—and its Chambers, Lockes, and Tarkingtons, too! Their wonderful epics, their stories and poems are written in the supernal language of harmony and tone.

And in the richness of their art everyone finds an exquisite pleasure—a pleasure that becomes finer, deeper as acquaintanceship with music grows more intimate.

Yesterday, it was not everyone that might have access to the delights of music. Music was locked away within the hearts of instruments which only talented fingers, trained by years of practice, could play.

But today—there are the many models of the famous Pianola which you may play with the perfect skill that creates the subtlest, most appealing music beauties. You may follow the paths of music to wonderful, new worlds of pleasure.

Remember, however, that not every player-piano gives you a real intimacy with music. The exclusive expression devices of the Pianola endow its playing with an artistic quality not equaled by any other player instrument, regardless of name or price.

The Metrostyle

Provides a perfect and practical guide to correct tempo—indicates a pleasing and artistic interpretation for every composition.

The Themodist

Makes the melody sing above the accompaniment notes—enables you to get effects accomplished by the pianist through subtle variations of touch.

The PIANOLA

Is made in the Steinway, Steck, Wheelock, Stuyvesant, Stroud and famous Weber models exclusively. On sale only at the Aeolian Company's store. Prices from $550—on very liberal terms.

Take Iron, Says Doctor, if You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Run-down People 100% Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Cases

Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or magic drug. When, as a matter of fact, iron and true strength can only come from the food they eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they have not enough iron in their blood. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what. So they generally consult a doctor, who, if he is a good one, will tell them to take Nuxated Iron. This thing may seem so simple, but it is not. It is a most potent remedy, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions, as for liver, stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of anemia in the blood. This thing may seem so simple, but it is not. time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old form of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena, while many another has gone down to ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

CITY RECOVERS $2349 IN WATER BILL GRAFT CASES

Persons Who Paid at "Pipe Line Rate" Lose $1566 Given to Ring.

An investigation of the water rates of the city by special auditors employed by Comptroller Player and Collector Koehn, resulted in the recovery of $2349.00 from 38 city customers who paid their bills to a graft ring at a "pipe line rate" of 33 per cent discount. Five employees were indicted last November, charged with embezzlement of about $500.

The audit shows, according to a report made yesterday by Associate Comptroller Gunn, that the city probably will lose about $200 as a result of the grafting, while the water consumers will lose all they paid to the ring members, about $1566.

The city cannot collect two accounts aggregating $55, because the responsible persons have died, and in a few other instances firms have gone out of business.

The city is attempting to collect a bill of $44.70 against the Brennan Livery Co., 1315 North Grand avenue, which was compromised by a "pipe line" inspector. The business later changed hands and the city refunded $55 of the license, although it never had received anything.

The largest defalcation discovered was that of the Hotel Laundry Co., 335 Magnolia avenue, which paid the city $388 on back bills that had been previously paid to members of the graft ring according to its officials. The company officers could not produce official receipts and Collector Koehn told them the old bills must be paid or the water would be shut off.

Collector Koehn already has collected $120.50 of the bills that were compromised on "pipe line rates," and other bills for $113.19 were prepared by the Comptroller yesterday and turned over to Koehn for collection.

Women's Troubles?

If you knew just the simple truth about Cardui, the medicinal tonic for women, you would not feel satisfied till you had given it a trial.

We have, at considerable cost, prepared a 64 page illustrated BOOK FOR WOMEN. It explains troubles peculiar to women and will help any woman to understand and treat them in the privacy of her own home. It is written in simple English, and tells what you should know in a way you can understand. It is full of valuable information for every woman who is not in perfect health.

This book will be sent free to women only, postpaid in plain wrapper upon request. It is distributed in no other way. All correspondence is confidential—just say "Send your Home Treatment Book".

Would Itch. Formed Scales. Caused Unsightly Appearance. Child Very Cross and Fretful.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl's scalp was affected with something like blisters and a thickening of the skin. At first it was a place about the size of a common penny, but it soon grew larger as a common penny. When scratched, it was very itchy and the child was very cross and fretful. It caused an unsightly appearance on her scalp, and her hair never grew again. I tried many remedies, but nothing helped. I then bought a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the second application relieved the itching and burning. The blisters soon disappeared and the skin became normal. I have since purchased one box of Cuticura and they have been of great service to me. (Signed) Mrs. Charles Culman, 118 St. Post-Office, Mo., Aug. 18, 1914."

SEDALIA, Mo., Feb. 3.—Judge Henry Lamm, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Missouri, Monday night addressed the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, giving his reasons why he had consented to become a candidate for the Republican nomination. Judge Lamm also attacked the present administration of the state and outlined the activities that cost the State Immune sums in carrying out legislation enacted. Judge Lamm said:

"A Governor of Missouri, it seemed to me, should be a man, who believes in work as the prime quality of manhood and who would give his days and nights to his task; for a mighty task it is, to be the head of a great commonwealth, to be the teacher, the farmer, the workman, the citizen of property and the poor man with none, the courts, the laws, the schools, the charities, the employers in the great manufacturing corporations, the railroads, the cities, the country, public decency, taxation, expenditures, all and more—much more—should come within the scope of his duties. He should be there for they come within his functions in one or another phase of them.

"The Governor of this State should know and love the State and all its people. He should be at the Big Horn from the Big Tarkil in Atchison to the Chute in Pemiscot—over Elk River in McDonald to Fox River in Clark.

"He should not be a hidebound or narrow partisan, nor 'play politics' in office, but should live up to the precept that he serves his party best by serving his people."

He should be a Judge of men and be able, as far as in him lies, to encourage and hold those administrative officers he appoints, not only to the high ideals and the loyalty to him and his ambition for his additional and subsequent preferment but to fealty to high ideals and to

"I have a public speaking club, and I think that would not be bad; but I call you to witness that a mere gift of fluent speaking will not make a good Governor, that in a government of free-born men, public speaking is often but an amusing or indifferent affair, and that a government by public speaking instead of by work is likely to be a weak government; for, believe me, there is a great gulf between the greatness that comes from talk and the greatness that comes from things done.

"If he had a gift of writing well, he would not be bad, either. But if he could THINK well and if he had the divine gift of doing modestly his great work and forgetting about himself, I utter devotion to his task, of letting the chips speak for him as a workman and of getting praise not so much from public speaking as from the silence by desiring it, so that other men might praise him—I say, if he could do that, it would be best and most of all. What a Governor he would make! What an inspiration to every servant of the people! How great a need of such an inspiration!

"Heaven alone knows, I do not know whether I could measure up to such a standard, but you will permit me to say that I did not, for I sin would have with wide-open eyes; for I know anything about the subject at all. I know what a good Governor should be. He should be a man of courage, not a mere stubborn man, but yet a man of opinion about possibly the best solution of our problems; he should be a man, not a mere opportunist, whipped about by every passing fad or wind of doctrine; a student of the Constitution, a judge of valid laws, revering the fathers and their work, but with his eyes open to existing evils; and, finally, I tell you this present day has its own problems and we can remember and accept the lessons of experience, without resting on the settled belief that the book of the science of government is a closed book. He should be no more a man or wear the collar of subservience to any set of men, but should be tolerant, openminded and great hearted with it all. Heaven alone knows whether I could make a Governor like that, but if I am strong enough to think I would not or that, because of infirmity in knowledge, in temperament or in disposition I could not, then let me tell you, my friends, you would cast an unpatriotic shadow over if you cast one on me.

"Need I Lesson, Mr. Mayor.

"If I have the right spirit, the majority of the people of Missouri profoundly believe that the party in power in this State needs to be taught at the polls (I put it mildly) the sweet uses of humility and adversity.

"It looks in Missouri as if our Democratic friends have ridden far and far towards a fall at the next election. No one need mourn over this fact; for it will do the party good to be soundly beaten. It will do Missouri good to go Republican. But let us not deceive ourselves, it will not go Republican unless we take ourselves seriously.

"We must so conduct ourselves that men may see we have the welfare of the State at heart, and that with one accord, with might and main, we are setting ourselves to the task of doing good to the State in the most exciting sense. We must make a great one for State affairs in a bad way, and a majority of the people will believe.

"That we need a change.

"That there has been a waste of money, our taxes have been extravagantly frittered away.

"That there have been loose and reckless appropriations, leaving no ability to pay.

"That the overpaid money was prodigally squandered on unnecessary expenses of legislation.

"That our taxes have put our State jealous of its financial house have been disarranged.

"That the State treasury is empty, coming and cannot be prevented by the related stroke of executive power.

"That the overpaid cost of some of our public buildings, and all other portion to results obtained."

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell

Mr. Jarr Tries to Out-Argue Mrs. Jarr—but Oh, What's the Use.

"WELL, what have I done now?" asked Mr. Jarr, hurrying after Mrs. Jarr as she alighted from the street car. Mrs. Jarr turned on him with flashing eyes. "Don't you ever, don't you ever dare!" she exclaimed. "You let that loafer insult me!"

"There's a lot of loafers travel on this line," he'd liked to have caught him at it. What did he do?" asked Mr. Jarr. "He kept pressing his foot all the time," said Mrs. Jarr. "And I looked across at you, and there you sat smiling like a Cheshire cat! Ugh, it drove me wild!"

"But for goodness sake, why do you react that way?" said Mr. Jarr. "You say you didn't notice it, and that you were afraid of calling my attention to it for fear I'd smash the fellow; and yet, here you are giving me a fit about it when I couldn't help it!"

"When you saw me uncomfortable—and you could have seen I was uncomfortable if you had only looked—you should have changed places with me. But you don't care what happens to me!" said Mrs. Jarr.

"You never did let on; you admit that yourself," replied Mr. Jarr. "And now you tell me why when anything happens you come with a woman who blames her husband?"

"Because she has a right to!" "Not unless being married to him gives her that right," said Mr. Jarr. "But now I come to notice it and think it over I see it's always that way. If a woman has her feelings hurt by anyone who has to suffer for it? Her husband?"

"If she less as cards, playing bridge, when does she accuse of being a cheat?" Her husband. She will smile at her dearest foe, who is jabbing her right and left with sneers and stings, and then when her husband comes home the poor, good-natured fellow, offers her a few cheerful words, he gets his head taken off. Here you are, mad at a loafer and scolding me!"

"Oh, all men make me sick!" said Mrs. Jarr, flaring up again. "Oh, all the men I come to notice it and think it over I see it's always that way. If a woman has her feelings hurt by anyone who has to suffer for it? Her husband?"

"Oh, all men make me sick!" said Mrs. Jarr, flaring up again. "Oh, all the men I come to notice it and think it over I see it's always that way. If a woman has her feelings hurt by anyone who has to suffer for it? Her husband?"

"If she less as cards, playing bridge, when does she accuse of being a cheat?" Her husband. She will smile at her dearest foe, who is jabbing her right and left with sneers and stings, and then when her husband comes home the poor, good-natured fellow, offers her a few cheerful words, he gets his head taken off. Here you are, mad at a loafer and scolding me!"

S'MATTER POP?

An Expert.
Manager: Do you think you could do the landlord in 'The Lady of Lyons'?

Wary Actor: Well, I should say so; I've done a good many.

Think of Your Neighbors.
I HEAR your daughter is taking singing lessons. Don't you find it rather expensive?

"Well, it's cheaper than hiring a lawyer."

Hard Times.
A GENTLEMAN in New Orleans advertised for a man to do chores around the house and the advertisement was answered by a colored man. "Are you married?" asked the prospective employer.

"Yas, sah, I's married," replied the applicant, "but mah wife is out of a job. Dat's why I'se got to shif' for mahself."

Quite Well, Thank You.
A FRENCH old country lady, with a large parcel got into a first-class carriage in Scotland. She was very plainly dressed. A porter came to the window and asked:

"Are you first-class, ma'am?" "Well, I'm not exactly first-class, but I'm pretty well, considering, thank you," replied the old lady, as the train slowly moved out of the station.

Still on the Job.
WHEHE have you been, Mary Ann?" "I've been to the girls' improvement class, ma'am," was the maid's reply.

"Well, and what did the minister say to you?" Did you tell him your mis-trust was wrong?"

"Yes, ma'am, he said I wasn't to give notice, as I intended, but that I was to consider you as my burden—and here I am!"

No More Cries of "Help!"
A CHURCHLAND woman was walking down a street wearing a pair of rubber shoes. A dog saw the fur and made an energetic attack, divesting one of the shoes of its trimming.

"What the dog thought he recognized that, for an old-time foe, the neighbor's cat. But if he did, women have come to be thankful for it, for it is used to trim women's shoes, women would not care that mice will keep Poor Fellow!

RICHMOND PEARSON HOBSON was talking about the divorce evil. "The curtailment of personal liberty has a good deal to do with divorce," he said. "The husband's personal liberty is curtailed and the wife's is curtailed. Hence moral degradation and divorce."

"To a restaurant the other night, a man was drinking beer and eating sandwiches with his wife and his mother-in-law. He finished his beer and took a fresh sandwich. The attentive waiter snatched up the empty glass and said politely:

"Another beer, sir?" "Shall I have another, Minnie?" he said. "She'll look after her mother."

The Milkman's View.
EVERYONE who goes to Niagara," says a novelist who has recently come to America, "hears some absurd, ridiculous and inept remark there. You stand and gaze at the falls, profoundly moved, and then, of a sudden, something is said, and the effect of the grandeur goes forever."

"The day I first saw Niagara a man touched my arm as I looked up at those white waters. I turned to him, and he had the smile of the confirmed joker."

"It seems a shame," he said, "to see all this going to waste."

"What are you?" I said. "An electrical engineer?" "No," he answered; "a milkman."

Ear Muffs Needed.
W HERE are my ear-muffs, honey?" "For mercy's sake, what do you want of ear-muffs now? It isn't cold tonight, and besides we're only going around the corner to the movies."

"That's just what I want them. I don't care to hear the people sitting near me tell the plot of the play before it develops on the screen."

Mere Trifles.
MRS. HASHLEIGH (sentimentally): It's the little things that annoy us most. Boarder: Yes, the small portions, for example.

Just Try It and See
MERCHANT: According to your argument, there is nothing that would build up my business faster than a page ad in your magazine. Business Manager: Oh, yes; a two-page ad would.

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One
THE surgeon," remarked the man who was recovering from an operation, "said he'd have me on my feet again within three weeks."

"He did, didn't he?" asked his friend. "He did, indeed. I had to sell my motor car to pay his bill."

Hits From Sharp Wits
They say that time flies, but it depends on whether you are the creditor or the debtor.

Some people are satisfied with themselves, but it probably doesn't take much to please them—Macon News.

Men who remark lightly that money is good for nothing but spending often haven't it to spend.—Albany Journal.

A man is always uncomfortable when he tells his wife a lie and doesn't know whether she believes him or not.

A man who doesn't gossip about other people may miss a lot of the spice of life. But he is never kept busy nursing a pair of black eyes.

One of the first things a baby learns is to put his foot into his mouth. And a whole lot of 'em never break themselves of the habit when they grow up.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

No Admission, Either.
THE man of the house came up from the cellar with a worried look on his face. "The water pipe has burst," he said, "and there's six inches of water all over the cellar floor."

"Oh, isn't that just too lovely for anything!" exclaimed his better-half. "Now you can let the furnace fire go out and we'll have a skating rink right here in our own home."

Happy Couple.
A MINISTER meeting a parishioner of his who had been quite recently married and about whose domestic happiness terrible stories were told, saluted him and said:

"Well, John, and how is all going on?" "Oh, happily enough," returned John. "I'm glad to hear it. You know there were rumors of rows or—"

"Rows?" said John. "Oh, yes, there are plenty of rows. Whenever she sees me she catches the first thing at hand, a dish or anything, and fires it at me. If she hits me, she's happy; if she doesn't, I am. Oh, we're getting on fine!"

His Gratitude.
THERE is a certain little fellow into whose heart his mother has been for some time striving to instill the sentiment of generosity, which, to her regret, did not appear to be naturally present. The son of a poor family of the neighborhood she had particularly commended to her boy's consideration. The other day he came in with beaming face.

"You know Tom, that poor boy?" he said eagerly. "Well, I gave him half that box of candy you gave me!"

"You are mamma's own sweet little man!" the fond mother approved. "Was he grateful?"

"Oh, he precatized it all right," the little fellow assured her. "He let me lick him when two other kids come, an' tomorrow he's goin' to come round by the school and let me lick him right in front of everybody, for the other half of the box!"

No Admission, Either.

Two Hard Stunts.
up this morning I found the snow had drifted and completely filled up the path I had made."

Brief and to the Point.
A PUBLISHER is credited with a unique criticism of a story-teller who had begun promisingly but soon degenerated into the lowest type of "best seller."

"This gentleman's biography," said the publisher, "can be comprised within two questions and answers thus:

"How did he begin writing?" "How did he begin to think?" "How did he continue?" "With a thought of wealth."

The Lesser Evil.
SCIENTISTS have determined that a brass band sends out sound waves which will extinguish fire."

"Do you mean that I'll have to call out the village band rather than the fire department if my house catches fire?"

"It may come to that."

Germ of Great Idea.
NEVER put off till tomorrow what you can do today.

"That's what I thought when I cleared a path from my front door to the road last night."

"I see. Saved yourself the trouble of getting up early in the morning to do it."

Big Success.
MABEL: Was your bazar a success? Gladys: Yes, indeed, the minister will have cause to be grateful. Mabel: How much were the profits? Gladys: Nothing. The expenses were more than the receipts. But 10 of us got engaged, and the minister is in for a good thing in wedding fees.

ABOUT the worst hum steer one can get is to ask if marriage is a failure of the couple who has made a fizzle of it.

An Anticlimax.
JUDGE MOSES WRIGHT, the eloquent good roads champion of Georgia, said:

"After the roads of the Old World, the New World's roads are far in advance of the Old World, but to pass from their roads to ours is to be down like the new boarder."

"How's the grub here?" a new boarder asked genially, rubbing his hands, at the dinner table of a boarding house.

"Well, friend, we have chicken every morning," an old boarder grunted.

"Chicken? Every morning?" The new boarder positively beamed. "Chicken every morning. And how's it served?"

"In the shell," grunted the old boarder.

Try Speaking to It.
I THOUGHT you said this car was a self-starter," said the lady to the agent from whom she had purchased her automobile.

"I did," replied the salesman, "and you'll find it just as I represented."

"I find that it is nothing of the sort. I have to push a button to make it go."

Force of Habit.
WHY the noise?" "The barber is shaving himself."

"But why the argument?" "He is trying to persuade himself to have a shampoo."
